Awards Banquet on Friday, April 26, 2019 at 6 p.m.
Quonset “O” Club, North Kingstown, Rhode Island
Welcome to the 2018 Rhode Island Press Association Editorial Contest.

The online contest platform has been relocated from last year to awards.ripressassociation.org. You have until 11:59 p.m. on Feb. 22, 2019 to enter your material, but we encourage submitting entries early.

This year’s contest will feature a total of 44 categories, including two categories recognizing excellence in election coverage.

We encourage all members to nominate individual journalists from their news organizations for special recognition as “Distinguished reporters of the year,” “Notable new reporter of the year,” and “Photographer of the Year.” As always, we welcome suggestions for improving future contests. We look forward to seeing all of you at our annual banquet, April 26, 2019 at the Quonset “O” Club in North Kingstown.

Until then, thank you for supporting the Rhode Island Press Association and best of luck in this year’s contest.

-Michael McDermott
Vice President, Rhode Island Press Association

Call for entries for the 2018 RIPA Scholarship

The Rhode Island Press Association is seeking applications for its annual $1,000 scholarship, which is awarded to an outstanding college student who is preparing for a career in print journalism.

Applications must be received by Friday, March 29. Students need not be majoring in journalism to be eligible. Instead, judges are looking for academic achievement and a demonstrated interest in print journalism, such as work on school or community newspapers.

Nominees must be residents of Rhode Island attending any four-year college or university or nonresidents enrolled at a Rhode Island college or university who are entering the 2019-20 academic year as juniors, seniors or full-time graduate students. The scholarship money is paid directly to the student.

Interested students should send a letter of nomination from a college official or instructor detailing the student’s accomplishments, cover letter, resume and samples of work, including newspaper stories, classroom assignments or any other supporting material, to Elyse Major, editor in chief, Providence Media, via email at elyse@providenceonline.com by Friday, March 29, 2019.

A panel of editors and journalists will judge the nominations. The R.I. Press Association will award the scholarship at its annual banquet April 26.

The Rhode Island Press Association is accepting nominations for the Journalism Hall of Fame. This is a lifetime achievement award for someone who has made significant contributions to journalism through reporting, editing, photography, design, or education; or who has led innovative changes within a news organization, or advocated for the First Amendment. Nominees must have made a substantial impact on journalism within Rhode Island or be a Rhode Islander who has made such contributions to the field out of the state. Nominees must be 55 years or older. Historic nominees, who have been dead for 50 years or more, also will be considered.

A maximum of three inductees are selected each year by a Hall of Fame committee of members in good standing in the Rhode Island Press Association. To nominate a candidate, provide a 200-300 word biography of the candidate explaining why he/she meets the criteria and should be in the Hall of Fame. Include any applicable supporting materials, such as story clips. If several individuals from a news organization want to nominate a candidate, they need only send one nomination form. If the candidate is selected, the committee will require a more complete biography and a photo. This material is used to produce the Hall of Fame plaque.

The Rhode Island Press Association Hall of Fame accepts nominations throughout the year for the Rhode Island Journalism Hall of Fame. The deadline for this year’s submissions is Dec. 31, 2019. The nominee will be placed on a list of potential inductees for at least one year before he/she becomes eligible to be considered. The name may remain on this list for no longer than six years. If he/she is not selected for inclusion, the committee could choose to drop the name from the list or vote to keep it on the list for an additional four years.

Any member of the press association may submit a nomination. (If the newspaper is a paid member, its news employees are members.) For more information, and to submit nominations, email Len Levin at lenlevin5@hotmail.com. The Rhode Island Press Association will honor its 2018 Hall of Fame inductees at its annual banquet April 26.
Rhode Island Press Association
2018 Editorial Contest Rules & Guidelines

1. Competition is open only to member organizations of the Rhode Island Press Association in good standing. Employees and regular contributors of member publications are considered staff for the purposes of this contest. Individual entries will not be accepted. Associate members who have created material for a member organization, however, may appeal to that member organization to submit that material on their behalf as part of its overall entries in the contest.

2. Material submitted must have been published between Jan. 1, 2018, and Dec. 31, 2018, either in print or online, EXCEPT in portfolio entries as specified.

3. Publications may enter up to three items per category, unless otherwise indicated in the category descriptions. Each writer, photographer or designer is limited to one entry per category. Each entry may be entered in one category only.

4. Each publication is allowed to enter only one multiple-bylined story, which will be awarded to the organization and not the individual members of that organization who contributed to the entry, per category.

5. All Writing, Photography and Design entries will be submitted online at: awards.ripressassociation.org.

6. Print publications will be mailed for Distinction categories. Mailed entries should be sent to: RIPA 2018 Editorial Awards, c/o Mike McDermott, The Providence Journal news department; 75 Fountain St., Providence, RI 02902.

7. All publications are judged together by an out-of-state press association. Judges will be directed to award first, second and third place in each category, although they will have discretion to limit the number of finalists if they judge the quality of the category to be weak.

8. In categories that receive a total of either three (3) or four (4) entries, judges will be directed to award only a first-place winner. Categories that do not draw at least three (3) entries will not be judged.

9. In categories with more than (15) entries, judges will be allowed, at their discretion, to award one honorable mention if the quality of the entries merit it. In categories that receive less than fifteen (15) entries, judges will be directed not to award an honorable mention.

1. Each photographer is limited to no more than one (1) entry per category.

2. Publications may only submit up to three entries in each photo category.

3. Eligible entrants must be full- or part-time employees, or regular contributors of member publications.

4. Entries must be work created specifically for the member news organization.

CONTEST FEES

The fee is $20 for the first entry from each publication (i.e., individual newspaper flag) and $10 for each subsequent entry. Entry fees may be paid with cash or with a check, mailed separately.

WRITING

1. NEWS STORY (SHORT)
Recognizes the best single news story measuring fewer than 1,000 words on a local subject. Entries may include informational sidebars or features relating to the main story appearing in a single issue. Judging will be based on the depth of information presented, clarity of writing and evidence of enterprise.

2. NEWS STORY (IN-DEPTH)
Recognizes the best single news story measuring more than 1,000 words on a local subject. Entries may include informational sidebars or features relating to the main story appearing in a single issue. Judging will be based on the depth of information presented, clarity of writing and evidence of enterprise.

3. SPOT NEWS STORY
Recognizes the best single spot news story on a local subject. Entries may include informational sidebars or features relating to the main story appearing in a single issue. Judging will be based on depth of information gathered, clarity of writing and evidence of enterprise.

4. INVESTIGATIVE/ANALYTICAL NEWS STORY
Recognizes an outstanding story that involves investigative, analytical or other in-depth reporting published on one day. Entries in this category must go beyond first-day news stories in approach and execution. Entry may include any sidebars. Judging will be based on the quality of reporting, depth of information presented and enterprise.

5. SINGLE-TOPIC SERIES
Recognizes excellence in ongoing, in-depth coverage of one particular issue or news event. The series may be investigative or analytical -- or may simply show-case a news organization’s in-depth re-porting on a given topic. Judging will be based on the quality of reporting and enterprise shown in providing readers with information that is not readily available elsewhere. Consideration will be given for use of digital tools to enhance coverage. Entries are limited to 10 items, including digital elements. (No supplemental exhibits, please). Entries may include a brief nomination letter detailing coverage.

6. BUSINESS STORY
Recognizes the best single news or feature business story or stories on a local topic appearing in a single issue. Judging will be based on style and technique of writing, originality and enterprise.

15. ARTS OR ENTERTAINMENT STORY
Recognizes outstanding arts and entertainment reporting or feature writing on a local topic, artist or entertainer. Judging will be based on originality, writing style and depth of insight.

16. FOOD & DINING STORY
Recognizes outstanding reporting on a topic related to food or dining. Judging will be based on style and technique of writing, originality and enterprise.

17. UNIQUE/MOST Unexpected Story
Recognizes the most unexpected, humorous, unique or creative stories. Judges consider quality of writing, originality and enterprise.

18. SPORTS STORY
Recognizes outstanding reporting of a story or stories about a sporting event or a local aspect of a trend in spectator or participatory sports or general recreation published in a single issue. Judging will be based on writing style, originality and enterprise, as well as the ability to communicate to both sports fans and non-sports fans.

19. SPORTS FEATURE STORY
Recognizes an outstanding local feature story or personality piece involving an organized sports or recreation program, including those examining a local aspect of a trend in spectator or participatory sport or general recreation. Judging will be based on technique and style of writing, originality and enterprise.

20. SPORTS COLUMNIST
Recognizes outstanding sports columnists. Judging will be based on writing style, originality and insight. Each writer’s entry should include three (3) different columns. A sports columnist’s work should appear at least on a monthly basis to qualify for entry.

21. EDITORIAL WRITER
Recognizes outstanding editorial writing on local subjects. Each writer’s entry should include three (3) different editorials. Judging will be based on the quality and clarity of writing and the depth of research. Entries must have been clearly published as editorials.

22. NEWS/FEATURES COLUMNIST
Recognizes outstanding column writing by a regular news or features columnist. Judging will be based on writing style, originality and insight. Each entry should include three examples of the writer’s work. The columnist’s work should be published at least once a month to quality.

23. ARTS/NICHE COLUMNIST
Recognizes outstanding writing by an arts of niche columnist. Judging will be based on writing style, originality and expertise in the topic area. Each entry should include three examples of the writer’s work. The columnist’s work should be published at least once a month to quality.

24. HEADLINE WRITING
Recognizes outstanding headline writing on local subjects only (no wire/AP copy). Entries consist of three (3) different headlines from the same publication during the entry period (all of 2018). Judging is based on creativity, originality and accurate representation of story content. Headlines MUST BE ACCOMPANIED BY STORY.

ELECTION COVERAGE

37. GENERAL ELECTION COVERAGE
Recognizes overall excellence in informing readers about candidates and issues prior to the primary and/or general election in 2018. Entry should include examples of print, digital and audience engagement efforts. Judging will be based on the breadth of coverage and packaging of information that voters could not otherwise get from a single source. Entries limited to 10 examples, which may include special sections and/or URLs to digital presentations. Entry should include a brief nomination letter outlining overall coverage and audience participation. (One entry per publication.)

38. SINGLE-TOPIC ELECTION COVERAGE
Recognizes excellence in coverage of one particular race or issue leading up to the primary and/or general election in 2018. Judging will be based on the depth of coverage and use of digital and/or audience engagement efforts to inform voters on this race or issue. Entry may include a brief nomination letter detailing coverage. (One entry per publication.)

39. SPECIAL SECTION
Recognizes an outstanding special section written and produced entirely by a newspaper’s staff on a particular topic or commemorating a local event, anniversary or observation. Entries should demonstrate good planning, strong writing and design.

40. BEST DIGITAL PRESENTATION
Recognizes an outstanding story or collection of stories, including sidebars, presented in a digital format that complements work done in print on a single topic or area of coverage. Entry should be a combination of strong print reporting and an inventive digital presentation. Entry can include the use of digital tools that enhance a news organization’s brand or ongoing reporting on a particular topic. Judging will be based on the quality of re-reporting, depth of information presented and enterprise — with a focus on how the digital presentation enhances the impact of the coverage. Entries should include a brief letter describing the material and a URL for the digital submission(s).

41. DISTINGUISHED JOURNALIST
This portfolio entry honors a reporter with two or more years' experience in journalism. Submit up to five examples of work in the last five years that showcase reporting, writing and storytelling skills on print and digital platforms. Judges will consider the nominee’s command of the basics of news reporting, enterprise and versatility. Nomination letter required. (Two entries per publication.)

42. NOTABLE NEW JOURNALIST OF THE YEAR
This portfolio entry honors a reporter with less than two years' experience in journalism. Submit up to five examples of work in the last two years that showcase reporting, writing and storytelling skills on print and digital platforms. Judges will consider a nominee’s growing command of reporting skills, enterprise and versatility. Nomination letter required. Two entries per publication.

43. PHOTOGRAPHER OF THE YEAR
This portfolio entry honors a photographer for outstanding work in 2018. Submit 10 photographs that showcase the nominee’s skills, creativity and versatility. This is open to those who work primarily as a photographer for a news organization. Two entries per publication.

44. COMMUNITY OUTREACH AWARD
Recognizes the outstanding work member organizations have done out-side of the printed page to benefit or engage the community that they serve. Entries should include a letter from either an editor or the publisher of the publication explaining what the effort was, why it was done and what effect (if any) it had on the community. Entries may also include any related coverage before, during or after the event and any results achieved through this event. One entry per publication. The winning organization will be honored at the end of the night with a check for $500 to the charity of the organization's choice. Judges will consider whether the nominee has demonstrated outstanding achievement in community outreach and engagement with a project, campaign or event.
